The Green Mountain State has one of the most undeniable and celebrated beer cultures in the country, amassing awards and honors for decades now. In the early 90's it was at the heart of the craft beer movement and continues to be a global force with dozens of internationally renowned microbreweries across the state. Credited with the greatest number of breweries per capita in the nation, true beer fans visiting Vermont have a multitude of premier breweries, bars, and bottle shops they can visit - all within a few hops of Burlington.

BREWERIES
