Come Find Your Virginia | OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

Consistently rated the best in America, Virginia’s 40-plus state parks have been the scenic backdrop for perfect holidays for more than 85 years. Offering experiences as diverse as the state’s landscape itself, parks can be found along the Atlantic Ocean and Chesapeake Bay, on historic sites, in the Blue Ridge Mountains and just outside of major cities. The parks have thousands of campsites, hundreds of cabins, more than 500 miles of trails, and convenient access to Virginia’s major waterways.

VIRGINIA STATE PARKS

CHINCOTEAGUE ISLAND
A tiny fishing town off Virginia’s Eastern Shore, Chincoteague Island is steps away from the Atlantic Ocean and famous for the Chincoteague ponies that live in the 37-mile-long Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge on nearby Assateague Island. Each July the Chincoteague Volunteer Fire Company’s Pony Swim and Auction brings scores of spectators to the island town as the saltwater cowboys round up ponies and swim them across the channel.

GOLF COURSES GALORE
Fore! Get ready for some of the country’s best classic course designs and modern layouts. Virginia offers some of the world’s top-ranked golf, with courses spanning from the mountain tops to the coastal shores. Adding the wonderful year-round weather to the legendary scenic landscape creates a golf destination that is as alluring and accessible as anywhere in eastern North America, with 220 public courses to choose from.

KAYAK WITH DOLPHINS
Enjoy the thrill of a close encounter with Atlantic Bottlenose Dolphins in the Chesapeake Bay. Ideal water temperatures make Virginia Beach a year-round playground for these curious mammals, guaranteeing you a standout adventure. While easily spotted even from shore, one of the best ways to see them is on the water from a kayak, with tour company Chesapeake Outdoors.

SKYLINE DRIVE
Skyline Drive is Shenandoah National Park’s linear conduit, 105 miles long with 75 overlooks connecting travelers to all the major visitor centers, campgrounds, lodges, picnic areas and most trailheads. Concrete posts numbered every mile keep you apprised of your whereabouts. Fall is the most popular time to travel the Drive, with its colorful foliage from late September to mid-November. Spring offers colorful wildflowers as well as blooming azaleas and mountain laurel.
Eastern America’s largest caverns are a U.S. Natural Landmark noted for their profuse variety of formations and unsurpassed natural colors. From well-lighted, paved walkways explore cathedral-sized rooms with ceilings 10 stories high, filled with towering stone columns and crystal-clear pools. Also hear the sounds of the world’s only Stalacpipe Organ, played from a regular-size organ but with organ pipes that are stalactites themselves, spreading over three underground acres and wired with little rubber mallets. Below-ground temperatures hover around 54 degrees, so the caverns are a great place to escape summer’s heat and perhaps even warm up on a chilly winter day.

GREAT FALLS PARK

The whitewater wonder is a natural highlight of Virginia where the historic Potomac River crashes over ragged rock at this 800-acre park. George Washington himself commissioned a system of canals and locks to allow barge traffic to navigate around this extensive whitewater froth working its way through Mather Gorge. After visiting the remarkable falls, enjoy 15 miles of hiking trails and five miles of horseback riding and biking trails, perfect for an exciting day trip.

HIKING THE APPALACHIAN TRAIL

Virginia is home to 544 miles of the Appalachian Trail, making it easy to sample a section of the world-famous path through America’s untamed wilderness. Over 100 miles lie in Shenandoah National Park, after which the trail parallels the famous Blue Ridge Parkway on its way through the state, ending in Damascus, known as Trail Town USA, where it follows the town’s main thoroughfare and connects with numerous other legendary American trails.

Enjoy a relaxing 45-minute paddle on kayak from the local wharf of Bayford to Chatham Vineyards. Guides from SouthEast Expedition’s Winery Kayak Tour “Paddle Your Glass Off” will identify local wildlife and aquaculture along the way, then provide a tour around the historic property once ashore. After a complementary wine tasting there’s always time to sit outside at the vineyard and enjoy a glass of wine along with a cheese tray before paddling back. Chatham Farm has been a working farm for four centuries.

The historic outbuildings, barns and two early 1900s homes on the property have been renovated in recent years. The winery was constructed in 2005 and currently has a production capacity of 3,000 to 5,000 cases annually. Since 1999, more than 20 acres of high-density (1,740 vines per acre) French vinifera varietals have been planted — Merlot, Chardonnay, Cabernet Franc, Cabernet Sauvignon and Petit Verdot.

Michelin-starred chef Patrick O’Connell is now able to fulfill a lifelong dream of offering the simple, classic American dishes of his childhood, reimagined. Patty O’s Café is a former gas station on the village square that has been transformed into a charming sidewalk café, an inviting bar, and a cozy dining room. A bakery and European-style pastry shop are located on the side of the building. Menu highlights include a crock of Pimento cheese, champagne brined ham sandwich and Patty O’s half roast chicken with Ratatouille and pureed potatoes.

The cafe offers an additional dining option for visitors and guests of the 3 Michelin-starred Inn at Little Washington, located directly across the street. Dining at the Inn has been likened to a performance with the guest always playing the star role. The Inn’s dining rooms are pure fantasy – a wondrous cocoon of luxury. Rose-colored, silk lampshades float above each table creating a private, romantic world below. The Chef’s creations arrive at one of the 30 intimate tables as if served by invisible hands, course after course more dazzling than the last. From the award-winning 14,000-bottle wine cellar, which includes the finest offerings from Bordeaux, Burgundy, California and Virginia, the Sommelier plays matchmaker between you, your dinner and the wine.

Spread across 1,000 acres, Barbourville Vineyards cultivates 150 acres of vines on the historic property of Governor James Barbour. In 1976, Gianni Zonin, the head of one of Italy’s oldest wine families, acquired the land. Over the next 45 years, Zonin, along with winemaker Luca Paschina, has come to define the vinicultural region envisioned by Thomas Jefferson nearly two centuries ago. Convinced the area surrounding his Monticello home was well suited for European wine production, Jefferson’s dream is finely realized at Barboursville.

No other home in the United States more accurately reflects the personality of its owner than Monticello. Monticello is the autobiographical masterpiece of Thomas Jefferson—designed and redesigned and built and rebuilt for more than 40 years—and its gardens were, and still are, a botanic showpiece, a source of food, and an experimental laboratory of ornamental and useful plants from around the world. Parks have been the backdrop for perfect holidays for more than 85 years. Offering experiences as diverse as the state’s landscape itself, parks can be found along the Atlantic Ocean and Chesapeake Bay, on historic sites, in the Blue Ridge Mountains and just outside of major cities. The parks have thousands of campsites, hundreds of cabins, more than 500 miles of trails, and convenient access to Virginia’s major waterways.

Construction began in 1769 according to Jefferson’s first design, which was completed (except for porticoes and decorative interior woodwork) when he left for Europe in 1784. So inspired by a particular building in France Jefferson changed the plans, and work on a new design began in 1796, then complete in 1809. There are a total of 43 rooms in the entire structure: The first design of Monticello had 14 rooms total. About 60 percent of the furnishings on display at Monticello are or may be items original to Jefferson. Other items are period pieces or reproductions of original pieces.

Guided tours of the house are offered daily throughout the year as well as specialty tours discussing the lives of the plantation’s inhabitants; outdoor gardens and plantation tours are offered daily April–October. Children under 5 are free. Reduced rates for adult and student groups are available. Hours vary throughout the year.
