The Ulster Hall has been the pulse of Belfast's live entertainment scene for over 150 years and remains one of the city's most iconic venues. First opened in 1862, the 'Grand Dame of Bedford Street' is one of the oldest purpose-built concert halls in the UK and Ireland. This grand Victorian landmark has survived two World Wars and welcomed a remarkable array of artists, performers, and public figures - from Charles Dickens to Snow Patrol.

Steeped in history and brimming with character, the Ulster Hall has evolved over the decades to reflect Belfast's vibrant cultural heartbeat. During the Second World War, it became a much-loved dance hall, especially popular with American troops stationed in Northern Ireland. In the mid-20th century, it emerged as a premier boxing venue, hosting home-grown champions and global legends like Sonny Liston. Today, its reputation continues, regularly featuring on international boxing broadcasts and lauded by fans for its atmospheric setting.

Since the 1960s, the Ulster Hall has been revered as Northern Ireland's spiritual home of rock music. Its stage has been graced by a who's who of music royalty, including U2, The Rolling Stones, Johnny Cash, Coldplay, AC/DC, and many more.

As a sister venue of ICC Belfast, the Ulster Hall offers a truly unique alternative for gala dinners, awards ceremonies, and drinks receptions. Located in the heart of Belfast's Linen Quarter, it provides an inspiring and memorable backdrop for any event. Whether you're looking to celebrate the close of a conference programme or host a special standalone evening, the Ulster Hall combines historic grandeur with modern hospitality and production capabilities.

With one dedicated team working across both ICC Belfast and Ulster Hall, clients are assured a seamless and world-class experience, from planning to execution.

Titanic Hotel Belfast, formerly Harland & Wolff Headquarters and Drawing Offices, is the hotel that history built. Inspired by the history and culture of the shipbuilding location, the building remains true to the success of Harland and Wolff.

The main Drawing Office hosts some of the most spectacular events. Providing space for up to 300 guests, this suite is located within one of the cathedral-like vaulted offices where many of the designs for world's most famous ocean liners, including RMS Titanic, were created. The Pavilion Bar offers a dedicated arrivals space ideal for pre-function drinks and entertainment in a separate area, offering the perfect location for any grand event.

More intimate events can be catered for in one of the six Heritage Rooms named after the company directors and chair men who spent their working lives there. Each of the 119 bedrooms are decorated with nautical and Art Deco themes, inspired by the style of the time, representing the art of shipbuilding and the 'Golden Age of Ocean Liners.' Both bedrooms and public spaces are a mix of genres, with preserved historic features, and contemporary artworks and decorations. The restoration of this Grade B+ listed building is now a shining symbol of Belfast's golden age and the city's status as one of Europe's leading visitor destinations today.

Welcome to Northern Ireland

Embrace the Giant Spirit of Northern Ireland

Of course, there's more than enough to keep business visitors and conference delegates entertained in the city, but if you venture further afield your efforts are sure to be rewarded. Belfast is the gateway to exploring Northern Ireland and beyond the city lies spectacular mountain and coastal scenery, in a land of ancient myth and legend. And the best part is that much of it is within an hour's drive from Belfast. Perfect for a little time out from your busy schedule.

Northern Ireland Embrace a Giant Spirit

There are so many wonderful things to see and do in Northern Ireland. From our warm welcome and epic natural scenery to our world-class food and unforgettable experiences, we know just how giant an adventure in this corner of the world can be.

Derry~Londonderry

In 2013, Derry~Londonderry was host to the UK's first ever UK City of Culture. Dating back to the 6th century when St. Colmcille (Columba) founded a monastery, the city has been one of Ireland's continually inhabited settlements and is home to many historical buildings, renowned cultural venues and of course the 400 year old city walls. The city also boasts a thriving musical and literary scene to enjoy along with numerous city walking tours where visitors can relive the past.

The current Walled City dates back to the 17th century, when city status was received from the Guilds of London. The history of the city can be discovered in many of the key buildings that are located within the vicinity of, or close to, the city walls including the Guildhall, The Tower Museum and St Columbs Cathedral. For something different at night, the city walls and many of these buildings are beautifully illuminated, with feature lighting showing off the impressive facades.

Derry~Londonderry's restaurants, bistros and brasseries are booming. For a city of its size, the choice of food is quite remarkable. Whether you're in the mood for tapas with an Irish twist, lovely great cuts of fine roast beef or award-winning Asian dumplings, this place has it all and more.

The city also has a lively cultural scene, with numerous galleries and performance venues, as well as renowned festivals and events that take place on a regular basis – many of which take place at the city's Ebrington Square linked to the city by the impressive Peace Bridge.

Fermanagh

Host of the G8 Summit in 2013, Fermanagh is a county defined by water, so it is no surprise that it is Northern Ireland's premier outdoor location for water based activities. Take part in the many water sports that are available, visit some of the many islands dotted around Lough Erne, try your hand at fishing or even hire a cruiser and navigate your way from Enniskillen, along the Shannon-Erne Waterway, which links Upper Lough Erne to the River Shannon in the Republic of Ireland.

Marble Arch Caves Global Geopark is host to one of the finest show caves in Europe. Visitors are guided through a fascinating natural underworld while stunningly beautiful cave formations glisten all around. Prepare to be awe inspired.

If it is food you like, then Fermanagh is the place to be. Sample the locally produced famous Black Bacon, or alternatively experience and participate in one of the numerous cookery schools in the area such as the Belle Isle Cookery School or Orchard Acre Farm. If you want something more relaxing, spend a day experiencing some of the National Trust properties that Fermanagh has to offer such as the Crom Estate, Castle Coole or Florence Court. Spend time learning about the world famous Belleek Pottery or travel back in time discovering the history of the Gaelic Maguires and the towns two regiments at the Enniskillen Castle Museums.

Mourne Mountains

The Mourne Mountains are home to Slieve Donard, the highest mountain peak in Northern Ireland which rises to a height of 853 metres. This area is known to have been the inspiration for C.S. Lewis' land of Narnia in the popular children's books 'The Chronicles of Narnia'. Rich in flora and fauna, it is a paradise for walkers and bird watchers, full of folklore and culture.

As an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, the area has many outdoor adventure centres providing activities from hill walking, rock climbing and mountain boarding to mountain biking, bouldering, fishing and golf. Indeed the charming seaside town of Newcastle is home to the famous Royal County Down golf course, one of the world's top ten links courses. Other golf courses can be found in Ardglass, Warrenpoint and Kilkeel.

There are many forest parks in the region, including Tollymore, Castlewellan, Kilbroney and Slieve Gullion, each with unique characteristics. At Tollymore the Cedar Avenue is magnificent, and there are river, lake and forest trails of differing lengths, whilst Castlewellan is home to the National Arboretum and Annesley Gardens, the hedged Peace Maze planted with 6,000 yew trees, and the family mountain bike trails. Kilbroney is famous for its ancient woodland, walking and mountain bike trails and idyllic setting; Slieve Gullion's scenic drive offers stunning views across the Ring of Gullion, Mourne Mountains, Cooley Peninsula and Armagh Drumlins and has top class facilities for walkers and families. In the Upper Mournes are the vast tranquil reservoirs of Silent Valley and Ben Crom. There are many walking trails showcasing the stunning scenery and the 22 mile Mourne Wall also runs from peak to peak over some of the highest summits.

The towns in the Mournes area have their own stories to tell, such as the fishing villages of Kilkeel and Annalong, Banbridge with its linen industry legacy, Victorian Rostrevor and the historic City of Newry. To the west of Newry lies the Ring of Gullion, also an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. This striking landscape is an area steeped in Celtic mythology famed for it's rich culture and heritage, and numerous prehistoric and early Christian sites.

Strangford Lough

Designated as an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, Strangford Lough is Northern Ireland's first marine nature reserve and is the British Isles' largest sea inlet, internationally renowned for its marine, plant and wildlife.

The area is popular with tourists and noted for its scenery and picturesque villages and towns. As well as the main town, Newtownards, at the northern tip of the Lough, other notable examples are Portaferry and Strangford, separated by a short ferry crossing at its southern end. The area is known for its seafood restaurants and cafés and its unique crafts. It is associated with two great Scots, James Hamilton and Hugh Montgomery, who led the settlement of Ards and North Down, laying the foundations for the Plantation of Ulster by Scottish people, whose descendants came to be known as the Ulster-Scots.

Activities such as kayaking, fishing and sailing are popular on the Lough, and for the more adventurous the Sea Safari or canoe trails are a real treat. Activities on land include walking and cycle trails, golf, bird watching and horse riding.

There are also many fascinating attractions to be explored and enjoyed. Experience the vast marine life at Exploris Aquarium in Portaferry, or spend an afternoon at one of the two National Trust properties in the area, Mount Stewart House and Gardens or Castle Ward, which has mountain bike trails in its grounds. Delamont Country Park offers waymarked walks, a miniature railway and the Millennium or Strangford Stone - the largest megalith in Ireland and Britain - while the large collection of native and exotic water birds and wildlife at the tranquil Castle Espie Wetland Centre offers an amazing outdoor learning experience.

Steeped in Christian heritage sites, the Strangford Lough area forms part of the Saint Patrick's driving trail - indeed the area to the south east of the Lough around Downpatrick is commonly known as Saint Patrick's Country due to its close links with the Saint, and is known the world over as the burial place of Saint Patrick.

County Tyrone & The Sperrins

The Sperrins are the largest and least explored mountain range in Northern Ireland and one of Ireland's premier eco-tourism destinations, with rivers teeming with life, mountains, valleys, forests, lakes and outdoor pursuits. With its scenic windswept hills, County Tyrone has a special appeal for walkers. Gortin Glen Forest Park is made up of a network of 5 waymarked trails, each of the trails provide an opportunity to explore the beauty of the Sperrins and the woodland. The Sperrin Sculpture trail is also a must visit. Three majestic giants make up the trail, located throughout the Sperrins. Visit the Hill of The O'Neill & Ranfurly House Arts & Visitors Centre - the hill from which the famous O'Neill dynasty ruled Gaelic Ireland for over 300 years utilising a commanding 360 degree view of Ulster. Don't miss out on a trip to the Ulster American Folk Park, an outdoor museum which chronicles the story of emigration during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries; bring to life the various aspects of the emigrant's tale on both sides of the Atlantic. Whether you visit Todds Leap for an electrifying range of adrenaline pursuits, the Beaghmore Stone Circles for a glimpse into the area's ancient past, relax with a holistic treatment at Angel Sanctuary Healing Centre, enjoy a hike in Drum Manor Forest Park or marvel at 'The Tinnies' in Strabane. One of Ireland's literary giants, Seamus Heaney, came from the area and the Seamus Heaney HomePlace in Bellaghy, at the heart of the people and places which inspired him, houses an exhibition to showcase his life and works. The Sperrins and County Tyrone make for an unforgettable experience.

Lough Neagh & Its Waterways

Bordering five of Northern Ireland's six counties, Lough Neagh is the largest freshwater lake in Britain and Ireland at 18 miles long and 7 miles wide and the third biggest in Europe.

Lough Neagh captivates visitors with its tranquil atmosphere, unspoilt scenery, secluded bays and skyward views. A haven for wildlife and home to a wealth of flora and fauna, the lough also has a rich Christian heritage, with the remnants of three round towers and one of the finest high crosses in the whole of Ireland, Ardboe Cross.

The richness of the wild flower meadows, woodlands, shoreline and open water means that there is always something special to see. The lough has two main islands; Ram's Island and Coney Island, both of which have significant historic interest.

Whether it is the mythical story of Finn McCool or the more scientific explanation that you choose to believe about Lough Neagh's history, the largest natural resource in Northern Ireland is undoubtedly an 'eco-treasure'. There is so much to see and do from history and heritage, visitor attractions to land and water based activities. Lough Neagh and its Waterways is the homeland of Nobel Laureate Seamus Heaney. Visitors can embark on a tour of Heaney country visiting key sites in the beautiful landscape that were important in Heaney's life and work.

Lough Neagh eels are famous across Europe. Protected by European law for their unique quality, you can sample them in the top restaurants across Northern Ireland. During the season pubs close to Lough Neagh such as the Crosskey's Inn, Ireland's oldest thatched pub, serve eel suppers along with traditional music and plenty of craic.

Armagh

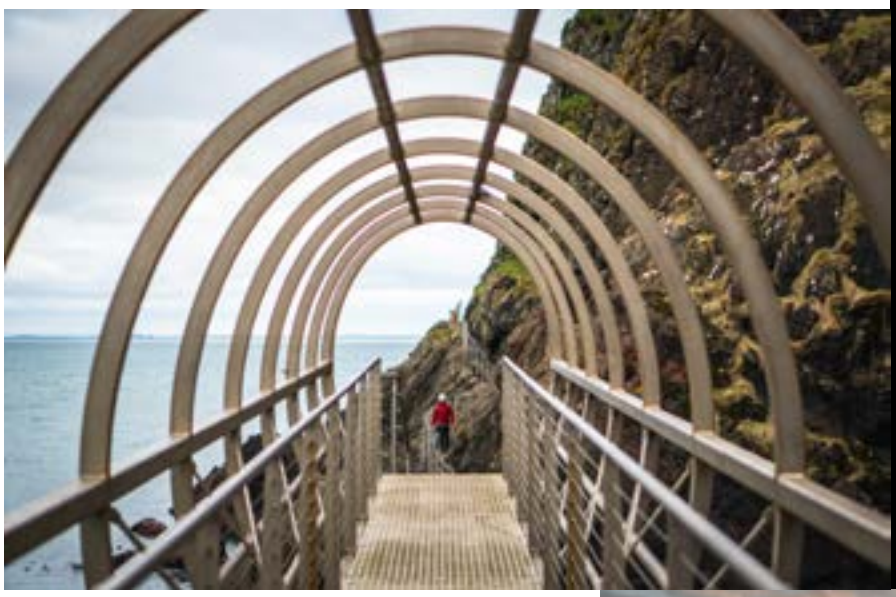

It may be the smallest of Northern Ireland's six counties but Armagh certainly has no shortage of history, culture and scenic landscapes. Known as the 'Orchard County' owing to the rich apple growing country centred around Loughgall in the north, each May the county comes alive with pink flowers in the apple trees, and the annual Apple Blossom Festival celebrates the start of the season.

The elegant City of Armagh with its Georgian architectural and Mall which is celebrated in November through the annual Georgian Day event is best known for its rich Christian heritage.

The city is a main destination on the Saint Patrick's Trail and has been known as the spiritual capital of Ireland since the Saint founded his great church in 445AD on the hill-top where presently the Church of Ireland Cathedral is situated. On the opposing hill sits the magnificent St Patrick's Roman Catholic Cathedral. The adjacent Cardinal Tomás Ó Fiaich Memorial Library & Archive houses more than 40,000 books dating from as early as the 15th Century together with a fine collection of historical artefacts.

The city has many sites to be explored and enjoyed. Relive the battle of Barossa, part of the Napoleonic Wars at the Royal Irish Fusiliers Museum. The Armagh County Museum holds rich and diverse collections of relevance to the area. Discover the coin and art collections on display at No.5 Vicars' Hill or visit nearby Armagh Public Library and see the many hidden treasures such as an original copy of 'Gulliver's Travels' and Sir Walter Raleigh's 'History of the World'.

Step back in time at Navan Fort situated to the west of the city. This Iron Age site was once home to the high kings of Ulster and an ancient ceremonial site, and the myths and legends surrounding the site can be explored at the Navan Centre. The rest of the county also has much to offer to visitors of all interests. The pretty National Trust properties of Ardress House and the Argory are fine country estates worth exploring. Modern-day Armagh City is an adventure ground of narrow lanes, hilly streets and wonderful open spaces. A stroll along the tree-lined Mall is a great introduction to city life. Places like Red Ned's are ideal spots to soak up the atmosphere, while foodies can take their pick of restaurants or coffee houses. Uluru, Embers and the Mulberry Bistro are particular favourites. Within walking distance of the city centre, the 300-acre Palace Demesne was, until 1975, home to the Archbishops of the Church of Ireland.

Make sure to pack your golf clubs as some of the finest links courses are located just a few miles apart including Royal Portrush Golf Club, which hosted The Open Championship in 2019 and due to host the 153rd Open in July 25.

History buffs will not be disappointed with Dunluce Castle, a medieval bastion perched on a North Antrim headland, with historic links to the early Christians, Vikings and Anglo Normans.
