

Southern Living

The Best Beach In The U.S. Is Right Here In The South

The South has an abundance of options for your Spring Break vacation, whether you'd like to stargaze in Texas, explore a tiny mountain town, road trip to see tulips, or take a glamping trip. It's hard to resist the call of the coast, however, as Southern beaches are some of the best in the entire world.

Many families pack up and head straight to powdery white sand and clear blue water each March and April, where relaxation (and occasionally shelling) are the only two items on the agenda. If you want to beat the crowds this year, one under-the-radar Southern spot was just named the best beach in the entire country, according to research by HomeToGo. You could consider it a hidden gem, but locals know the serene beach—and surrounding area—deserves its flowers.

In Florida, Bethune Beach (#2), Butler Beach (#4), and Satellite Beach (#7) all made the list. From Texas, winners included Jamaica Beach (#3) and Terramar Beach (#6). From Delaware, South Bethany Beach came in fifth, and from South Carolina, Litchfield Beach came in ninth. Rounding out the top ten was Indian Beach in North Carolina. (The full list of rankings can be found here.)