

Momentous Sports Launches Investment Platform

 MARLEY HUGHES / SEPTEMBER 14, 2025 / NEWS

We are pleased to announce the launch of Momentous Sports, an Orlando-based investment platform that combines ownership in sports teams with investment in dynamic mixed-use developments anchored by stadium districts.

Founded by Magnolia Hill Partners and supported by athlete partners John Elway, Tim Tebow, and Blake Bortles—alongside Andrew Cathy’s private real estate firm, Four Stones, Scott Friedman, and other strategic investors—Momentous is built by competitors, for competitors.

Our approach is positioned for long-term growth, aiming to unlock scalable opportunities while diversifying sources of potential upside.

Our Strategy in Action

Our first project is already underway in Jacksonville, Florida. Sporting JAX features both men's and women's professional soccer, with the men's team competing in the USL Championship and the women's team in the Gainbridge Super League. The club also operates one of the largest youth soccer academies in the country, serving over 12,000 athletes.

Momentous Sports serves as lead investor for Sporting JAX, and we're developing a comprehensive mixed-use district that will include housing, retail, hospitality, and public spaces.

This stadium-anchored development will serve as our flagship model for future opportunities across the United States and internationally.

Building the Future of Sports Investment

Learn about Momentous Sports' integrated approach—merging team ownership and real estate to unlock scalable returns and sustainable impact.

Our platform represents a new approach to sports investment—one that recognizes the power of sports as a catalyst for broader community development. By combining team ownership with strategic real estate development, we create multiple value streams while building lasting community assets.

This is just the beginning. We invite qualified investors to join us as we build a platform where championship leadership, sports ownership, and transformative real estate development align.

Share your love