The Irving Convention Center at Las Colinas is a 275,000-square-foot multi-functional building, with a 50,000-square-foot, column-free exhibit hall, a 20,000-square-foot ballroom and 20,000 square feet of breakout meeting space. The facility's highly flexible, stacked design allows it to host several different types of events concurrently, and the building's unique architecture, vertical design and interior finishes create a new niche in the market.

Located on a 40-acre tract in the Las Colinas Urban Center in Irving, Texas, the convention center is the first phase of a mixed-use entertainment district that is planned to include a convention center hotel, a 6,500-person capacity concert venue, restaurants, and retail space. Home to thousands of corporations and the global headquarters of six Fortune 500 companies, Irving understands the high-level demands of business meetings and events, and the customer service needs that accompany these. More than 75 hotels are literally within 10 minutes of the convention center, with 18 properties within a 2-mile radius.

With Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport just six miles west, access to the Irving Convention Center is quick, efficient and easy. The Dallas Area Rapid Transit's Orange Line includes a stop at the Irving Convention Center and will continue to Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport. DART also provides meeting attendees with easy access straight to downtown Dallas as well as arts, education, entertainment and businesses throughout the area.

Convention Center Overview

The building is divided into three main levels with the 50,000-square-foot, column-free exhibition hall on the first floor, along with the concierge desk and several green rooms. The mezzanine level features a relaxing café and outdoor, covered terrace with access from both inside and outside the facility.

The meeting and junior ballroom level provides 20,000 square feet of meeting space in up to 20 different breakout rooms, each averaging about 1,000 square feet. The space is divided into 11 dedicated conference rooms, one dedicated board room and a junior ballroom that can be divided into a variety of flexible configurations, including up to 8 individual meeting rooms. This level also includes the well-equipped business center, which is available to attendees during normal convention center hours. The unique layout of the prefunction space on this level is also highly flexible and can accommodate multiple groups or provide several staging areas for the same group.

An exceptionally well-appointed 20,000-square-foot grand ballroom and prefunction area is located on the top level of the convention center. This flexible space can be divided into an array of meeting rooms or smaller event rooms. The large kitchen that services the convention center is also located on this floor.

Exhibition Hall Level

At 50,000 square feet, the column-free exhibit hall can accommodate approximately 4,500 attendees theater-style. It can also accommodate over 275 booths, depending upon floor layout. There is retractable seating for 1,100, with seats folding away into built-in storage.

The floor is divisible in half, allowing two simultaneous uses of approximately 25,000 square feet each, or event move-in/move-out on one side while an event is taking place on the other side.

Other amenities include two green rooms and a show manager's office with a view overlooking the show floor. Ten loading docks allow for sufficient access and ease for show load-in/load-out.

Meeting Rooms Level

This "conference center" level is a key element of the building's design. There are 20 breakout rooms, each approximately 1,000 square feet in size. Eight of these rooms are also grouped together to create a junior ballroom space of up to 8,000 square feet.

There is a business center on this floor, as well. Ample prefunction space allows for plenty of room for catered breaks, and the floor's layout also allows multiple users to occupy the floor simultaneously, while each can easily retain their own areas.

Ballroom Level

A wealth of prefunction space, with south and east vistas to the Dallas skyline, allows for plenty of room for event registration and receptions.

The 20,000-square-foot ballroom is divisible a number of ways – in half to create 2 approximately 10,000-square-foot spaces, with each of those halves divisible in thirds.

A New Dimension to Green Meetings

Innovative in its design and approach to meetings, the Irving Convention Center at Las Colinas addresses the environmental standards required by so many organizations today. The facility is indeed a departure from the traditional, institutional big box. The ability to move fluidly within spaces and the creation of interesting places to interact with colleagues and clients have guided its design as much as a respect for the environment. The project has been designated LEED Silver by the U.S. Green Building Council. The Irving Convention Center is a 2013 Accessibility Professional Association / Governor's Committee on People with Disabilities award winner, honoring the facility's universal design principles, program access and services.

A Natural Copper "Skin"

A natural copper "skin" wraps the building's exterior and creates a dynamic, changing appearance to the building thanks to graduated perforations in the material that create transparency as light shines through. The copper panels will weather gracefully over time, aging to a beautiful green patina. Utilizing this natural material ensures that no chemicals or paint will be needed to maintain it. The perforated pattern of the copper panels also provides a cushion of cooling air to reduce the air conditioning demand. Many of the materials used in the interior finish-out, while exceptionally high-end, are constructed of either recycled or locally sourced materials.

Vertically Stacked Design

The vertically stacked layout, in addition to the copper paneling, allows the building to shade itself and its outdoor patios, while utilizing a much smaller footprint of land than a traditional facility, creating efficiencies not only in land use, but in servicing events. The building's vertical approach also makes it highly efficient for event attendees, allowing for seamless movement between events. An integrated parking garage reduces the amount of asphalt required for surface lots; the garage anchors the building's west side, providing another mechanism to soften solar impact. The building's light-colored roof helps to reflect heat from the sun.

Minimized Water Use

Utilizing water from nearby Lake Carolyn, more than 90% of the building's water requirements are met with water re-used for landscaping and other non-potable applications, including the building's cooling systems. The landscaping design includes drought-resistant native plants that require minimal watering. A dense canopy of trees on the plaza offer a cooling shade while reducing the ambient temperature.
